

Introducing a transformational, library-centered platform for digital content and services

The Palace Project is a new, non-profit platform that puts libraries at the forefront of the e-content landscape. Palace supports the mission of libraries by providing equitable access to digital knowledge, bolstering the relationship between libraries and patrons, protecting patron privacy, and enabling libraries to serve all their e-content in a single app.

Funded by a $5 million investment from the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation, The Palace Project is a division of LYRASIS working in strategic partnership with Digital Public Library of America (DPLA).

The Palace Project

The only not-for-profit, library-centered ebooks marketplace

Palace Marketplace is the only non-profit ebook and audiobook marketplace developed in consultation with libraries, for libraries. We offer ebooks and audiobooks from more than 1,000 publishers, including titles from Amazon Publishing, Hachette, Harper Collins, Macmillan, and Simon and Schuster as well as hundreds of mid-sized and independent publishers. We advocate for libraries with publishers for licensing models that better fit the needs of libraries and offer unique licensing models on much of the content available in the Marketplace.

Build an instant collection of free ebooks

The Palace Project allows libraries to jumpstart their collections with a free collection of more than 11,000 openly licensed titles available in high-quality epub format. The collection includes classics, contemporary fiction, nonfiction, children's books, and textbooks, all reviewed by the DPLA Curation Corps of volunteer librarians.

The library really is a palace. It bestows nobility on people who otherwise couldn't afford a shred of it.
